

NELSON'S BROKER SUMMARIES/ THOMSON REUTERS

Nelson Information, a Thomson Reuters company, has been a leading provider of financial and investment information on the global institutional investment community for over 25 years. Nelson's Broker Summaries are derived from the largest database of broker summary information of its kind in the marketplace today.

Nelson's Broker Summaries provide descriptions of virtually every research report published by more than 800 brokers and independent research firms including Goldman Sachs & Co. and hundreds more. Nelson receives and tracks over 200,000 broker reports per year covering over 14,000 public companies.

Nelson's Broker Summaries delivers three core information categories from the 800-900 new daily citations. Nelson's content is available as a single full feed product.

- Nelson's Research Reports: include the company name, ticker symbol, recommendation, breakdown of recommendation count, consensus earning estimates, company's industry and a Comtex-generated headline based on recommendation (buy/sell/hold).

Broker upgrades/downgrades of company stocks are also provided. Broker analysis includes research firm name, company name, ticker symbol, report file date, report headline, recommendations, analyst's name and a Comtex-generated headline summarizes the change in broker ratings.

- Nelson's Domestic Earnings Reports: include company earnings with the company name and ticker symbol, as well as report file date, headlines, earnings per share (EPS), and forward-looking estimates for U.S. publicly traded corporations. Also features initiating coverage and estimate change stories.
